TAVOLA ROTONDA: Migranti e sfruttamento economico in Italia

Department of Political and Social Sciences, University of Florence, 20 March 2024

with the PAPER

“Legalità precaria del migrante in Italia.
Evoluzione nel sistema normativo”

The intervention at the round table will aim to explore the ambivalences and contradictions that have characterised national legislation on the entry and residence of foreign workers in Italy. Specifically, the analysis will examine the so-called “Turco-Napolitano” law (Law 40/1998 and its Consolidation Act - Legislative Decree 286/1998), which regulates the migration of non-EU citizens to the country. Particular attention will be given to the fundamental pillars of the initial framework of the law, designed to ensure a policy of controlled and legal entry and residence, while promoting an immigration model capable of fostering long-term stabilisation. The second part of this contribution will instead examine how subsequent amendments to Legislative Decree 286/1998 – particularly the Bossi-Fini Law (Law 189/2002) and the security decrees introduced since 2008 – have imposed stricter regulations and introduced destabilising elements for the presence of foreign workers in Italy. In particular, the focus will be on how these measures affect the three basic pillars of the original 1998 law – work, family unity and residence – by weakening the legal status of migrant workers, thereby increasing their risks of precariousness and instability, as well as contributing to occupational segregation and exploitation. The discussion on non-EU workers is inspired by the entry “Migrant Worker” in the Glossary on good practices in the field of social work and human mobility (edited by Gijón Sánchez and Morata García de la Puerta; Global-ANSWER Network “Social Work and Human Mobility” 2023), developed within the Project “Global Social Work and Human Mobility: Comparative Studies on Local Government and Good Social Work Practices in the Euro-Mediterranean Region” (Global-ANSWER - H2020-MSCA-RISE-GA-872209).
